better than anniversary. I've had this game for years, and so I try to play again for the umpteenth time now that I have spare time and remember once again and uninstall this junk because it doesn't have controller support. I don't even understand how you port a game from console to steam and not have controller support... Anyway. Yeah, I don't recommend. It is fine for people who use keyboard/mouse I suppose, but I am not really good with that and it shouldn't have been an issue in the first place.. All the characters are so one dimensional and unlikeable. The world kinda tries to imitate an open world, but in reality, it's small and closed. The maps are usually very boring and there isn't much to do. Choices you make don't really matter all that much too as many things play out the same way and the whole 'Good - Evil' personality isn't really all that interesting and doesn't really do anything. Evil guys just have easier ways to finish quests and more rewards, so there isn't really a point of being good. Everyone I've seen playing it, plays as a evil guy. The characters are bad anyway so killing them isn't really anything emotional, but in the end the end result is pretty much the same. For the most part no one really cares who you kill and no one will call you a murderer or will be hostile towards you because of that. So the system doesn't really work. The combat system is very, very boring with certain enemies you have to fight with your bow you don't really use and probably you don't have any good bows as you don't buy them. But if you get to certain spells you can be an OP beast. Most of the time you're either too weak to fight all those guys the game throws at you at once, or you're too strong. There's no in-between. Also, there's another thing. I feel like everything is so expensive, you really have to have A LOT of gold to afford any equipment and this is the only place you can get it, aside from the bonus chests and stuff

But. The game hasn't really encouraged to go for any of the bonus stuff, because it requires a lot of time or preparations. Like, the bonus content is as boring as the main game, so I don't really want to go around collecting some stupid crap which will give me some unworthy rewards. The side quests are also very boring and have no actual reason to exist, because they don't give you anything. I think I haven't done any side quests as I was playing, maybe except for one at the very beginning. And as for the story... It doesn't really make any sense. The game keeps dropping this heavy plot bombs on you, but none of it is actually interesting or enjoyable. The game just wants you to go all around its small world, so you're always all over the place in different locations with reasons usually being "There's a job there, so go and do it". The pacing is very off and some of the plot points doesn't really make sense or mean anything at the end. Like, you do something, but you don't really know why and what does it change. But maybe it was just me skipping all the boring dialogues. I'm trying not to go in too much detail, because of the potential spoilers, but yeah. The game is bad.. This game was possibly my favorite of all time for the original Xbox. I was so excited when I saw it on steam; I bought it as soon as I could, got a controller, got ready then realized: NO CONTROLLER SUPPORT. I tried it with keyboard and mouse, and unfortunately it just ruins it. Give this a pass.
